Winemaking/Viticulture

This Grenache Shiraz blend is a light to medium bodied early release red similar in mouth feel and weight to a young Pinot Noir. There has been no oak influence or maturation and it is a wine designed to be drunk young while the fruit is dominant and proud. This style of red wine is becoming more popular in Australia as it suits our warm climate and way of life.

Aroma:

Fresh red and black berries such as raspberries, cherries and blueberries dominate the aromas, with hints of lavender and musk. It has quite the enticing and alluring nose.

Palate:

The palate is light to medium bodied and has a lovely silk texture with subtle Grenache tannins on the soft finish. It has a fruit profile that is again dominated by fresh red and black berries that persists after the wine has been swallowed. It is a drinkable refreshing lighter style of red.

Cellaring: Before serving chill to 15 degrees Celsius and simply enjoy now young and fresh!
